Our Annual, "The Battlefield"

Our Year Book is in hand, rich in its brown and cream and gold, a book of clear pictures, whether it be those taken in lighter vein or those of the campus, beautiful; or those of faces, loved.

Our Year Book is at hand with its printed page of wholesome fun; its history with the ring of finality; its prophecy with its far-seeing revelations of the big dim distance it is ours to spar; its athletics that tell of the victor's laurels; its dramatics that have made alive the printed lines.

All these phases has our Battlefield for the heart's content in year's yet to be, and a score of other items to delight.

In addition, it is most gratifying to both the staff and the student body to state that the financial results are beyond the dream of those who financed the book, realizing from it not only the needed figure, but having to its credit more than $200.

You are a record breaker, dear Battlefield of '22!

"How can I keep my toes from going to sleep?"
"Don't let them turn in."

Alumnae Notes

The Norfolk Alumnae have sent in a large check to the Alumnae Secretary.

Miss Mattie Maie Hughes and sister who are teaching in Arlington Co., Va., motored down Sun day evening, May 21, and spent a few hours.

Miss Marion Boxley spent last week-end with her sister Miss Gladys Boxley, her school in Fairfax Co. having ended May 17.

Mrs. N. J. Webb formerly Miss Lalie Lett is teaching in the Newport News High School.

Keith Sinclair, a last year's graduate was Sponsor for Elizabeth City, Co., in The Virginia Historical Pageant held in Richmond, for the week of May 17-28.

New Catalogue Ready for Distribution

President A. B. Chandler has announced that the 1922-33 school catalogue has been printed, and he wishes every student to own one. Especial attention is called to the four year degree courses, which will be offered next.

(With Apologies to Longfellow)

Tell me not in mournful numbers,
School is but an empty dream!
For the girl is flunked that slumbers,
And marks are not what they seem.

School is real! School is earnest!
And the "sheepskin" is its goal;
Study hard and those "learnest"
Does not come within our role.

By enjoyment and by bluffing,
We'll achieve this end or way;
And by constant test time stuffing
Get the highest marks some day.

Hours are long, and food is fleeting,
But we girls so strong and brave,
Still like hungry wolves are greeting
The "little store" kind fortune gave.

In the class-rooms, maze of tests
When you think you're in a fix,
Be not like dumb, brainless students,
Show your teachers a few tricks.

Let no exam., however fearful,
Make you study, worry or dread!
Trust, trust and be not fearful,
Joy within and luck o'erhead.

Lives of Seniors do remind us,
We can make our class sublime,
And, departing, leave behind us,
Records on the sands of time.

Records, that perhaps a Junior,
Gazing on teacher's solemn mien,
Thinking of that studious (?) Senior,
Seeing, shall take heart again.

Let us then be up and waiting,
With a heart for any fun;
Still believing, still relating,
Turn our faces to the sun.

MOLLY EMILY COATES.

Summer School

A large attendance is expected for the coming summer sessions. There are over 600 enrolled at present, and a larger number is anticipated.

EDITORIAL

June is upon us! We cannot reach the end of our school year, without our joys, and a feeling that we have accomplished many things, but still we have a feeling of sorrow and sadness, for none of us are thrilled at the word "Farewell." But as pleasant as it is, we cannot live on here, for here we only prepare for the future.

Seniors, we hate to give you up but may every success accompany you on your many ways. Remember your old Alma Mater is always behind you.

Juniors, we only part for a short time, and may we come back, ready to take up our Senior work. Had you realized it? We are soon to be seniors.

To our faculty under whose guidance, patience, and help, we have lived this year, we are most grateful and to those who will not return, we express our deepest regrets.

May all of us spend the happiest of vacations, and may those of us who are to return, come back to welcome right cordially the new Junior Class of 1923.

So good-bye to all.

Election of Bullet Officers

The student body met in the Auditorium, May 23, for the election of two officers—Editor-in-chief and Business Manager of the Bullet for the coming year. Eva Oliver, Editor-in-chief, and Irma Wolfe, Business Manager, were chosen, to fill these offices which Mary Lee McNair and Josephine Saville successfully held the past year.

ATHLETICS

At last the time has rolled around that often during the cold winter we have wished for; the time that marks the end of one more school year. But should we think for a while, I am sure we would wish the time we have together were not so short.

We feel that this year has been a most successful one, in our work and in our play. Play, you say? Yes, play, for often in the issues of The Bullet we have reviewed the athletic column and thought of the great fun that it all was and also the "great" work that it was for some of us, surely.

In this column of the June issue we shall review proudly the record made by both Juniors and Seniors on Field Day.

Running high jump, formerly held by Lucille Broaddus at 4 feet 1 inch, raised in a tie between Lucille and Phoebe Broaddus to 4 feet 3 inches.

Standing broad jump, formerly held by Juliet Ware at 7 feet 6 inches, raised to 7 feet 8 inches by Phoebe Broaddus.

Page Harrison carried off five honors in running broad jump, 75 yard dash, and baseball distance throw.

Effie Broaddus held first place in basket ball distance throw, June Johnson was winner in 100 yard dash and Eleanor Prout in 50 yard dash.

Hence, the girls who made the Field Day team received numerals this year.

The small silver loving cup was won by Lucille Broaddus, and this being the second time she has been successful in winning, the cup is hers. The large cup which went to the Senior Class, declared that truly the Seniors are the athletes of the day.

Girls who have earned letters other than members of varsity earned them in class teams and field day. They are Lucille Broaddus 2, Phoebe Broaddus 1, Rose Ulman 1, Charlotte White 1, Marjorie Dishroon 1.

The event that marks the end of all athletics is that of May day, when all of the honors won are made public and the successful ones receive their rewards.

The May Queen, the one to preside over these affairs, was Marye Wheeler from the Senior Class, and Helen Outcalt, Maid of Honor, from the Junior Class.

The affair was lovely and was a credit to all concerned, although the weather was inclement and was by no means "a day made to order," as one might say.

Thus ends our athletics for the year. Many good athletes will leave school this year, but needless to worry about our records for many more promising ones are coming on and we expect great things, as one always does, from Fredericksburg.

The May Day Exercises

On Friday afternoon, May 25th, despite the fact the Gods of Fate frowned upon us, we assembled on the campus before a beautifully and artistically decorated stage, for the crowning of the May Queen who smiled the while throughout the slowly descending rain drops.

Sara Seward and Gussie Jenkins led the procession as heralds, followed by eight little flower girls who strewed the path with rose petals for the coming of the Queen.

Preceding the Queen, Marie Wheeler, with her pages, Mabel Campbell and Levelle King, the maid of honor, Helen Outcalt and Walter J. Young, Jr., crown bearer, were the following attendants: Dwight McKinney, Mary Briscoe, Mary Bland, Frances Fosque, Louise Holtzclaw, Phoebe Broaddus, Mildred Larkin, Meta Glascock, Ada Whitmire, Belle Schwetz, Myrtle Wheeler, Lena English, Mary Lodd, Louise Gill, Louise Belote, Peachie Spindle, Mary Sibley and Bernice Thomas.

Adding to the attractiveness of the setting, were the costumes of the attendants, which completed our rainy day by giving the appearance of a rainbow of many pastel shades.

The Maid of Honor was dressed in a dainty pink organdie frock and carried a bunch of Ophelia roses and white Snap Dragons; the Queen was dressed in a white Georgette costume and carried a bunch of American beauty roses. The latter ascended to the throne with stately dignity and the crown of roses was placed upon her head by the maid of honor.

A short speech of welcome by the Queen was followed by the Senior May pole dance and the Junior dance. The dancers were dressed in fluffy fairy-like costumes of various colors which reminded one of gayly colored butterflies flitting here and there.

Then last but not least, came the presentation of the letters, numerals and other honors to the Junior and Senior tennis, baseball, basketball, varsity and track teams. Brown sweaters with the monograms were presented also to the varsity team. Lucille Broaddus who has won fame for her name, received the individual loving cup, and the Seniors the class

Y. W. C. A.

The work of the Y. W. C. A. was begun at the first of the school year by a committee meeting the new girls. Doesn't that seem a long time back in our memory?

Then the "get acquainted party" was given and helped to drive away those "blues."

Through the vesper and Sunday night services, the girls gained a knowledge of the "Y.'s" work and purpose. Afterwards an opportunity was given them to decide whether they would like to join this organization. A splendid membership was the result.

After this came the initiation of the members into various services, and we can truthfully say that they have done this work very well, since it was new to so many.

Many programs have been planned which were to all of us very impressive. A few of them were: "The White Gift Service." Thanksgiving was personified by girls in costumes suggestive of the periods mentioned, by Miss Conkel in her talk entitled, "Thanksgiving." Then, too, the "Christmas Bazaar and Oyster Supper." Oh, who does not remember those oysters? The Christmas service was held in the dining room before we went home for the holidays. Every one had the Christmas feeling and went home, feeling a bit happier for having done something for others.

Our "Y." work would not have been as successful but for the interest that others showed in this work. Among the speakers were Miss Elsie Hellar, our student secretary, who has been so interested in our work and has assisted immensely.

Mrs. Butler, a missionary from Brazil and also Dr. Cannock, Secretary of the Baptist Mission Board gave interesting talks which helped us all.

Mrs. Hazen Smith, a Presbyterian worker was with us too.

Miss Margaret White an Industrial worker of Richmond brought us a beautiful message in song. Dr. Gilmore has been so kind to us throughout the whole year that the "Y" will long remember him.

Our faculty has been very kind and helpful to the organization. Also Mr. Chandler, Dr. Young, Mr. Tyner Mrs. Bushnell and Miss Conkel have all given splendid inspiring talks. To all of these we are very thankful and unanimously ask that they will come again with their helpful talks.

We are all sad to see the old members of the cabinet pass from our midst, but our best wishes go with them wherever they may go and may their work of the past be an incentive to the new members and strengthen them in their work so that the year 1922-23 may be as successful as was the year 1921-22.

The Washington Literary Society

After a year of most interesting study of the lives and works of such men as Thomas Nelson Page, Edgar A. Guest, Rupert Brooks, Joel Chandler Harris, Woodrow Wilson and others, the Washington Literary Society ended its years work with a short business meeting Friday, May 26th. At this meeting new officers for the coming year were elected. The officers are as follows—President, Mildred Larkin; Vice-President, Mabel Campbell; Secretary, Virginia Jackson; Treasurer, Mary Briscoe.

We, the retiring officers, wish for you, Washington Literary Society, a new year full of new life, new interests and far reaching influences.

Additions To Be Made During Summer

1. Amphitheater, constructed of steel and concrete.
2. Further construction work on the driveway.
3. Additional seats in the assembly hall.
4. Enlargement of library.
5. Cold storage, for school use, and an additional plant for making of ice and ice cream. From this plant piping for conducting ice water will be laid to the school dining room.
